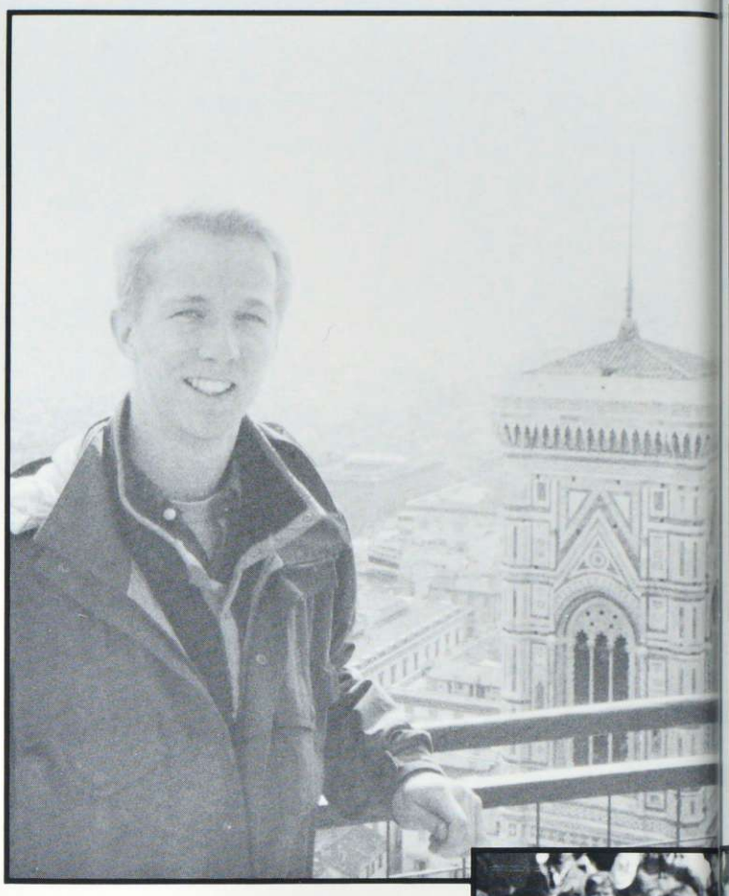
Mesdames et Messieurs, attention! Je vais vous faire une chanson . . . La ville lumiere. Cultural center of the world. Haven for our fledgling Middlebury orphans.

Cultural Exchange. Every once in a while, we would catch a glimpse of a tour bus of Czech, Polish, or Estonian citizens on their exploration of the Western continent. Just as moving was our visit to the U.S. Cemetery at Omaha Beach or to Arromanches in the October grisaille. (Do you remember our hyper-fluent tour guide? Okay-looking, but what an accent! Buerk!)

Our credo. Pass up Baskin Robbins for Berthillon, and McDo for anything at our favorite sandwicherie on Rue Notre Dame des Champs. And don't forget a crepe—Nutella and banana—or cafe creme at sunset on the top floor of Printemps.

For those who braved les stages, a few words of Verlan seemed necessary to communicate with les lyceens. At least one trip to a Jean-Louis David salon was good, while five or more trips to Fnac was better, even at their outrageous prices. Not eating at a petit resto somewhere on Rue Mouffetard was criminal. If your host family had M6, you were doing well (although they never showed any music videos as promised). Most important, however: if you could not sing the first few lines of Jean Le Loup's "Mille neuf cent quatre-vingt-dix" nor never went dancing at BOY, then you weren't experiencing Paris at it's best. Point final!



Italy

A Brief Guide Book to Survival in Florence
Lesson Number One: The caffe:
Believing himself to be well-integrated into Italian society, the "sophisticated" Midd student saunters up to the counter in Bar Nuove Poste armed with several semesters of class with Zupan and Skubikowski. "Un caffe," he proudly announces to the barrista. "Is that American or Italian style?" comes the reply in flawless English. "Italiano." persists our hero. "Va'bene, ma un caffelatte? un caffe ristretto? lungo? coretto? hag? freddo? o un cappucino?" "Uh," the Midd student glances around uneasily" . . . Un cappucino per favore." "Va'bene, ma lo vuole con o senza schiumo? con cioccolatto, con canella? . . ." "Uh, come vuole . . . Quanto devo pagare?" "Come? Non hai ancora pagato?" "No . . . Quanto devo?" "Mah, cio dipende. Se si siede deve pagare la doppia- double- se no, boh, normale." Penso che I'll just drink it here, then . . ." He snarfs his drink, throws some change on the counter (he hasn't learned their denominations yet anyway) and heads out the door to go back to Lucia's grammar class. "Oh! Aspetta!!" the barrista calls after him frantically, "Lo scontrino! Theee billll!" But it's too late. As our hero rounds the corner, he runs right into the chest of a large member of the financial police. "Oh Straniero, dov'e, lo scontrino? . . ."
Lesson Number Two (for women only):
Phrases to watch out for:
"Ciao, bellissima!" "Posso offrirti un caffe?" "Dove vai?" "Come ti chiami?" "Sei Americana? Tedesca? Olandese? Svedese? Francese? . . ."
Lesson Number Three: Getting Things Done
You can always do it domani.

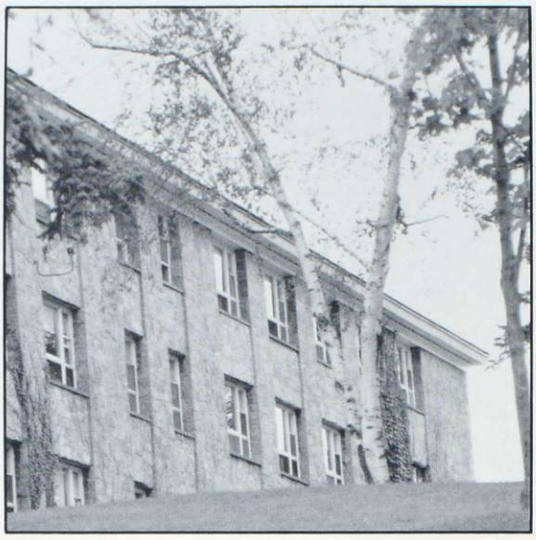
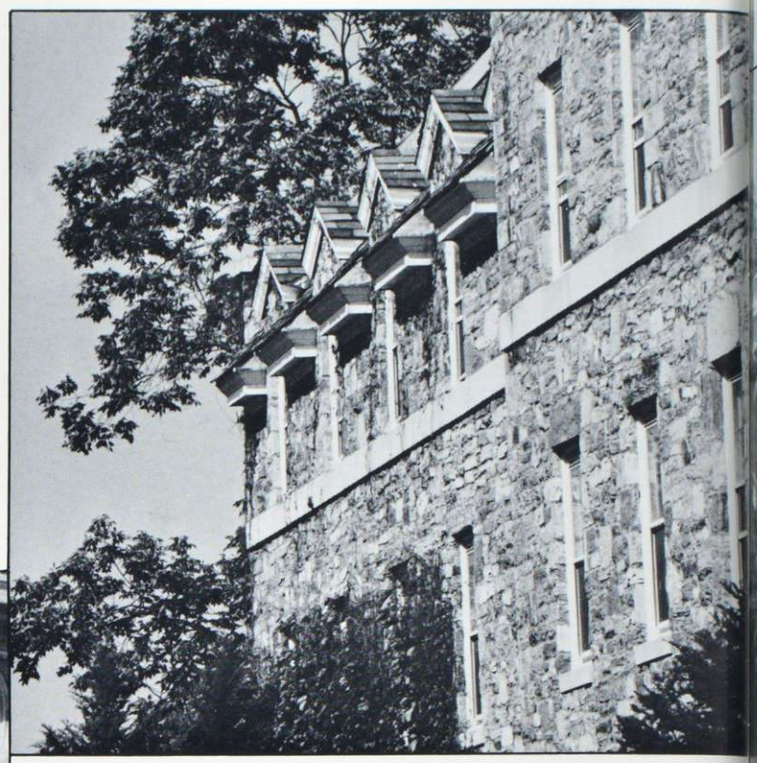
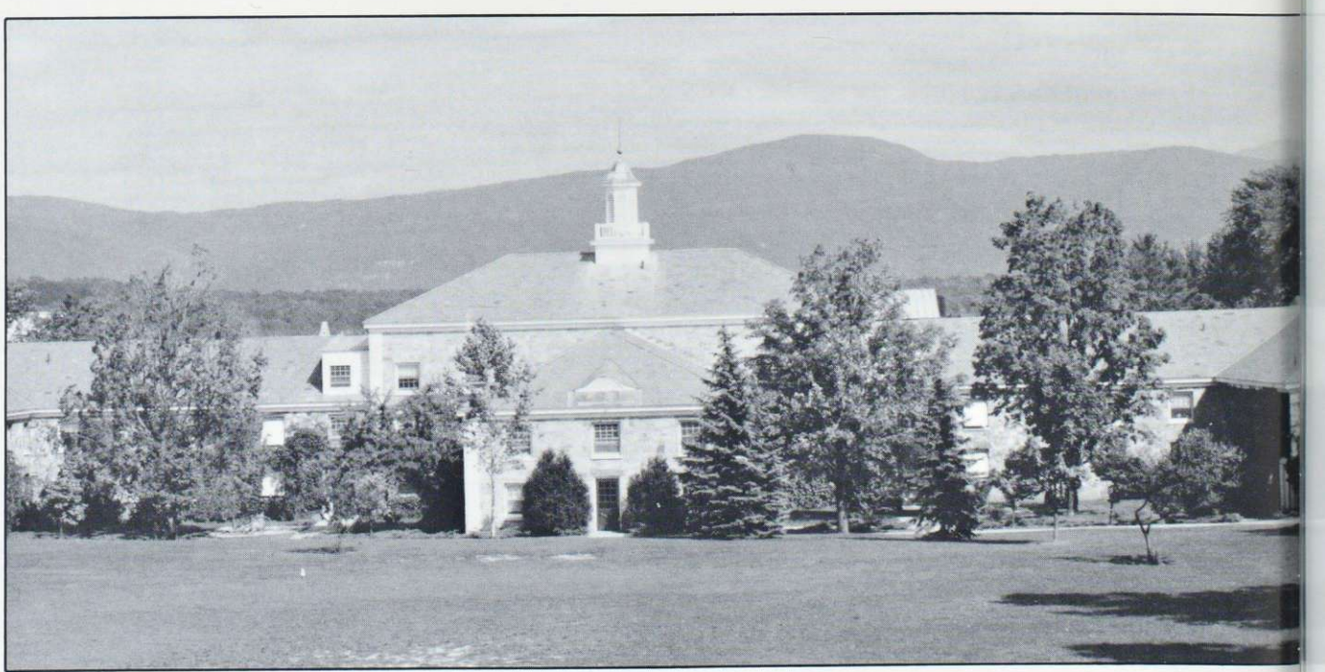
COMMONS AND HOUSES







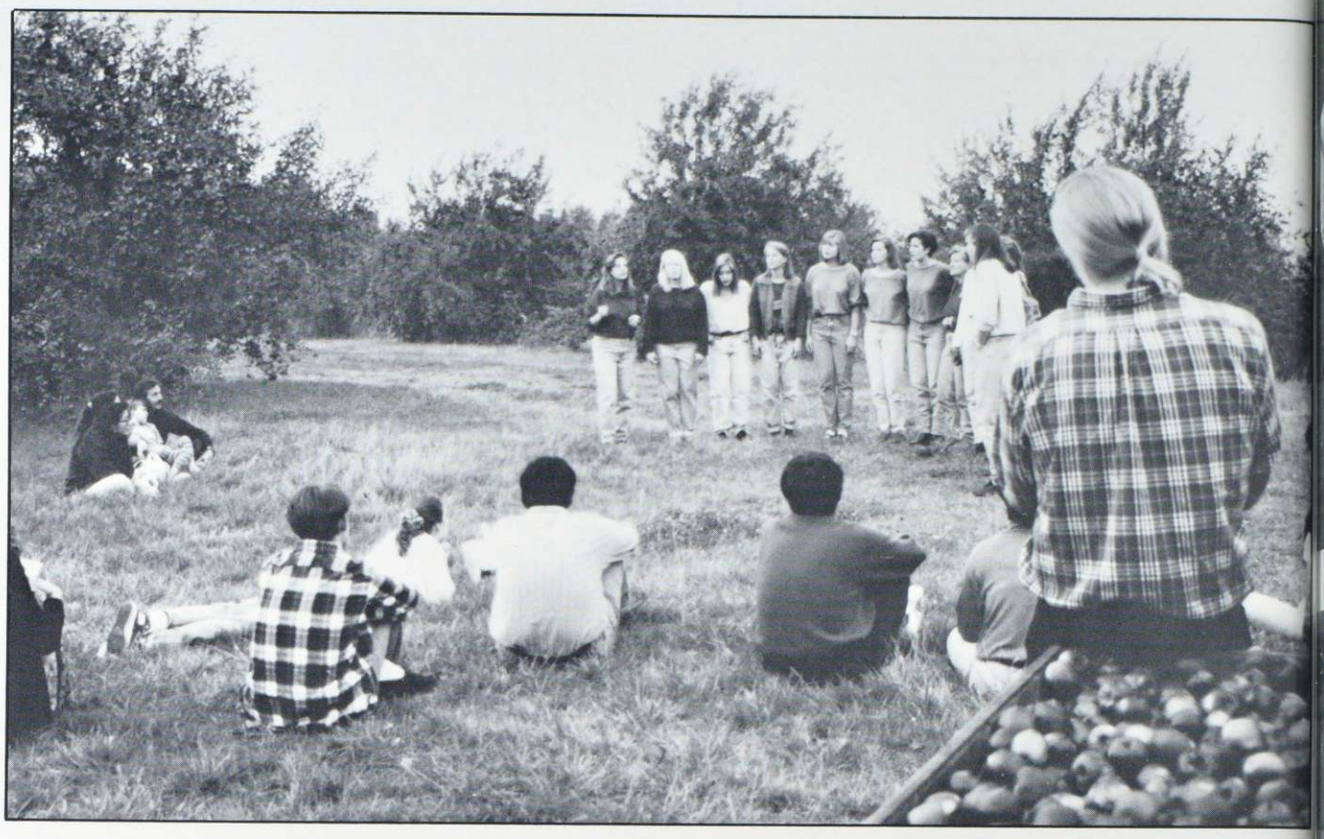
ROSS COMMONS

Ross Commons, comprised of Milliken, Hadley, Kelly, and Lang dorms, had a very busy and productive first year. Named in honor of Eleanor Ross, the Dean of Women at Middlebury from 1916 to 1944, the former "New Dorms Common" strove to help improve the quality of campus social life and create a sense of identity for itself. Because of its dedicated council, Ross Commons achieved both these primary goals. Through the efforts of Chaplain John Walsh, the Ross Commons Associate, faculty and staff participation in student social life improved, helping to enrich the overall Middlebury experience of all involved. The following is an abbreviated list of Ross Commons events:

Discussions on the Presidential debates and inauguration by Eric Davis / Football tailgates / Château dinners /First Annual Ross Commons Tug of War Challenge / Pumpkin Carving Festival for the children of faculty and staff / The Holiday Ball/ Battle of the Bands / Commons Cookouts / Bonfires / Student-Affiliate mixed doubles tennis tournaments / Movie nights / . . .

A special thanks to the RAs, John Walsh, and the Commons Council. With the renovations finally upon us (and all around us), Ross Commons can only continue to grow and improve. Good Luck!

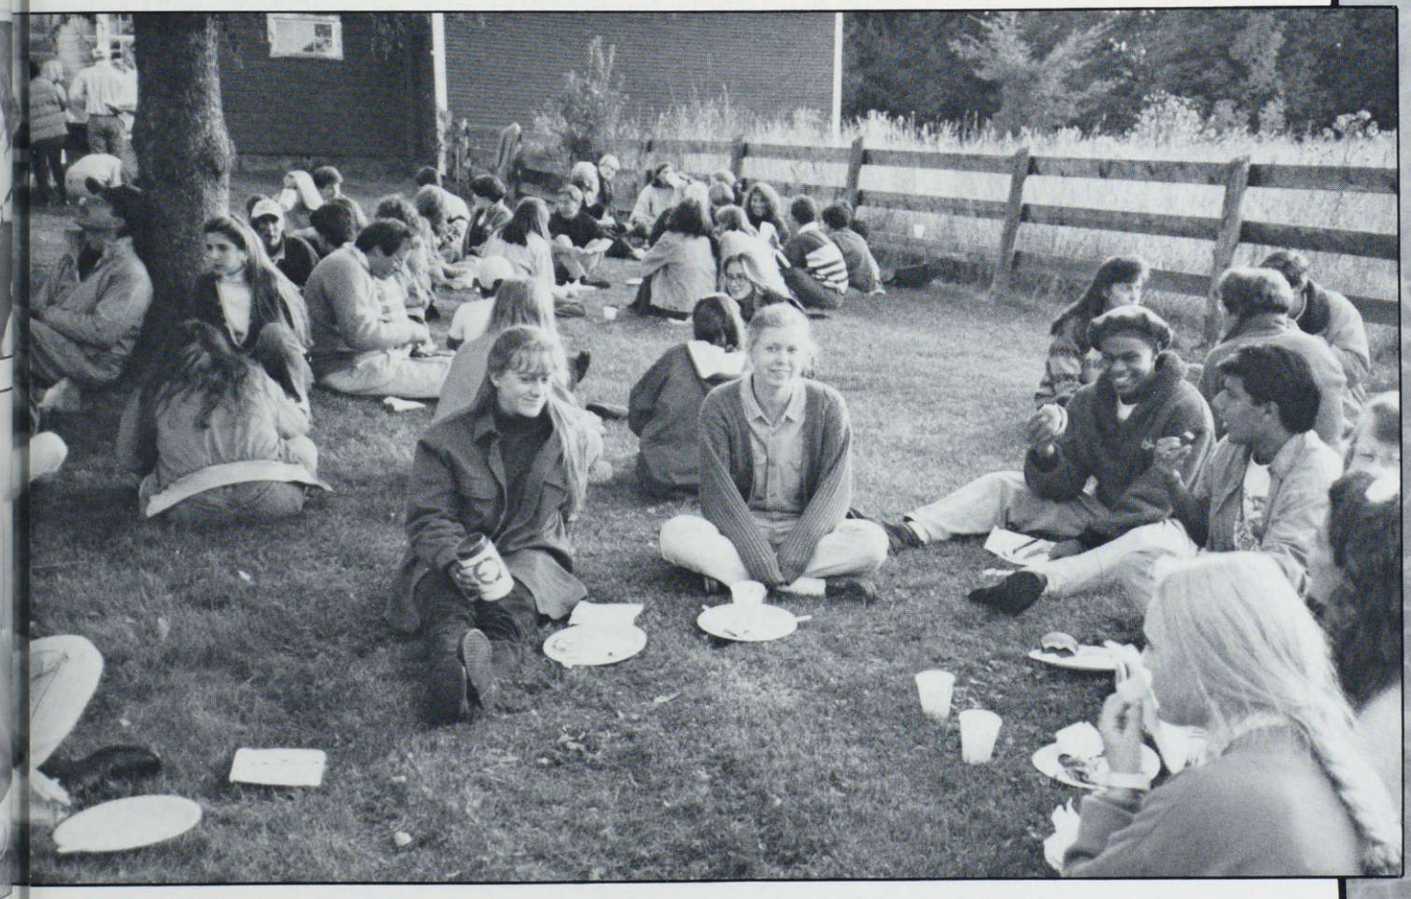
Thomas



Thomas Commons. Tea and talks: Terry Tempest Williams reads from Refuge, Richard K. Nelson and his Island Within; scenes from Importance of Being Earnest; Harlem Spiritual Ensemble presents Steal Away; Walter Wangerin tells stories; An Ancient Voice of this land echoes in Gifford Lounge; Su Tan sings Lieder. Traditions: Harvest Picnic in the Rockefeller's apple orchard; Reading of Dylan Thomas's A Child's Christmas in Wales; dog-sledding, carols, and glogg at the Holiday Party; the Masked Ball. Special Events: Matisse at MOMA; free tickets to concerts and plays; Rain Forest Alliance slides; Journey to Ecuador; Porter Nursing Home move; and First Amendment Debate.

Brainerd

Off to a great start by picking a cool name, the Ezra Brainerd Commons (Stewart, Starr, Painter, and Voter) sponsored a number of fun events in the Fall Semester and J-term. Overcoming the challenge of a Common made up largely of first years and seniors, Brainerd rolled out with a big barbecue at Commons Associate Bob Osborne's new house in September and from there moved on to Chateau dinner, a Halloween Bash complete with pumpkin carving, Election night pizza, and Christmas cookie baking. In January new affiliate Bill Howland gave a talk and slide show revealing the wonders of the tundra. Events planned for the spring included a ski day at the Snow Bowl to welcome the February freshmen and dinners at the Osborne's house.



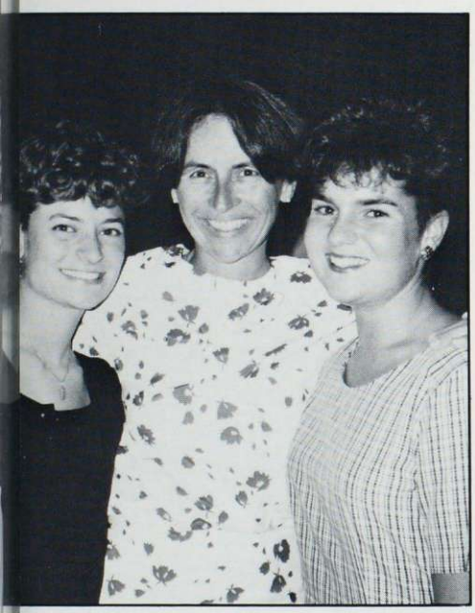
Atwater

The Jeremiah Atwater Commons consists of arguably the most divergent dorm-types of any of the commons; consisting of Allen, Barnes (North), Atwater, Davis and the Chateau. Frog Mansion, home of the associates, is a great resource where food, fun and discussion rule.

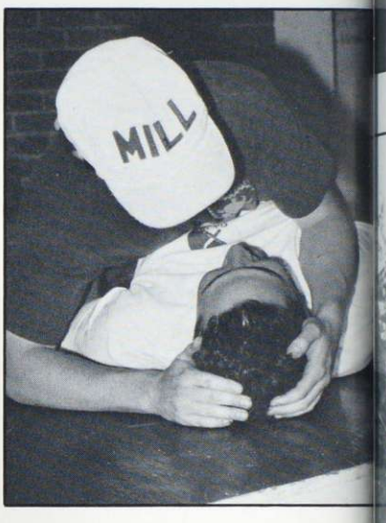
Frigidity did not hinder mascot Jeremiah the Bullfrog's leap into intellectual, social, and cultural hydrospheres. Kicking the year off was a barbeque on a very crisp September evening for faculty/staff affiliates and students. In October, Prof. Michael Geisler spoke to a large audience in the Grand Salon about events in Germany. Later that month, Allen lounge hosted freelance photographer Carolyn Watson, who shared her slides and stories of "third world" nations. Continuing the international tone that Atwater seems to be adopting, returning students from abroad spoke of their lives and times during a series of discussions. On the sporting front, baseball fans hopped to the old Undergraduate to watch the World Series, eat pizza, and play pool. Also held for web-footers was a X-C ski day, with free lessons for beginners.

Atwater's biggest social gathering was Karaoke Night, where people gathered to croak the night away to tunes from the 70's and 80's.

COOK



The Mill



This is our house. You may call us bad or scary or whatever, but we don't give a hoot. Whatever you are, you are probably welcome to come hang out with us and be comfortable. If you experience discomfort in our presence, it's your fault. We are mellow. We are drunks. We are the wasted youth. We are a lost generation that has found something worthwhile in us. We call for a celebration of entropy within organization, of chaos in all your straight lines, and of animal over civilized behavior in every possible respect. Amen.

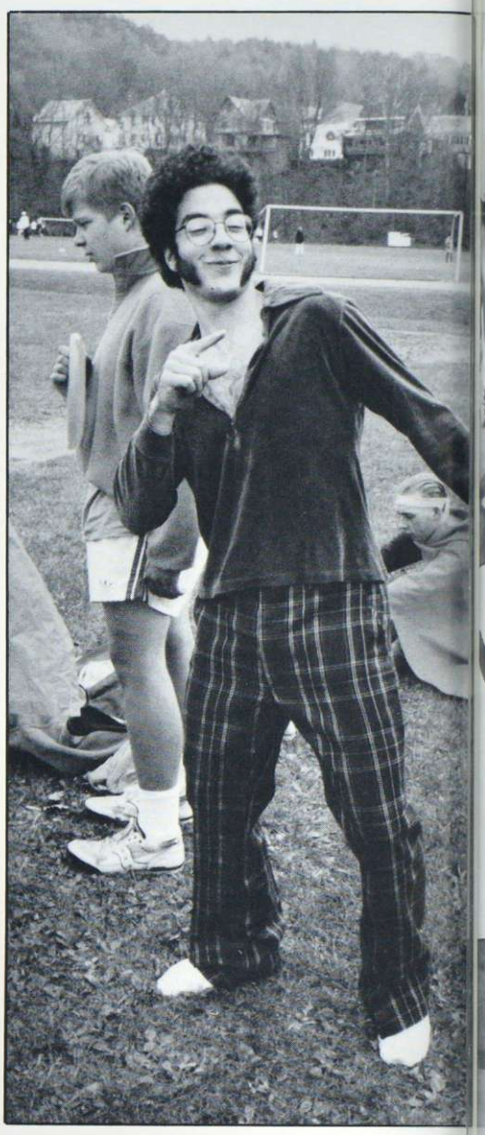
ULTIMATE PRANKSTERS

This year's edition of the Pranksters devoted much of its time to the pursuit of a new uniform, one which would adequately convey the character and spirit of the players. After toying with several looks, the team returned to the basic (yet flashy) t-shirt. Regardless of appearances, the Pranksters managed to advance to the Regional playoffs for the second consecutive year, thus warming the collective heart of their legion of fans.



Habitat for Humanity International is a non-profit Christian-based organization dedicated to alleviating the incessant and worldwide for adequate shelter. The organization's founding principle is expressed in John 3:18, "Our love should not be just words and talk, it must be true love which shows itself in action." Habitat is comprised of, and for the benefit of, people of all faiths. Whether building new houses, restoring old ones, painting, scraping or gutting, Habitat volunteers and families across the world work cooperatively to improve their standard of living.

Habitat for Humanity enjoyed its second year as a Middlebury College campus chapter; it was founded in 1991 by Ellen Lindquist and Emily Moore. Working closely with the Habitat chapters of Bulington and Rutland, Midd students were involved with a variety of projects in the Vermont area. Some recent endeavors included the complete renovation of a three-story decaying Victorian house in Benson, the raising of two new homes in Monkton, and the completion of a house in Hartwick. Prospects for 1993-1994 may involve an alternative Feb-Break trip south to a Habitat work site as well as continued work with nearby Habitat chapters and joint efforts in the town of Middlebury with Addison County Community Action. Thanks to everyone who came to help!

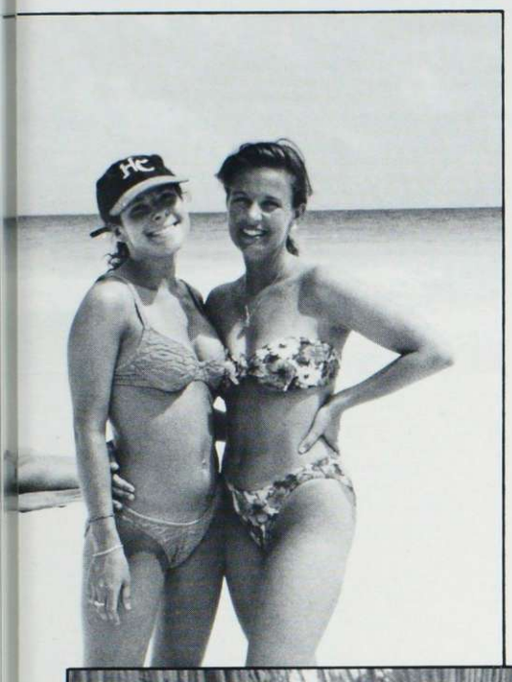
DISSIPATED EIGHT

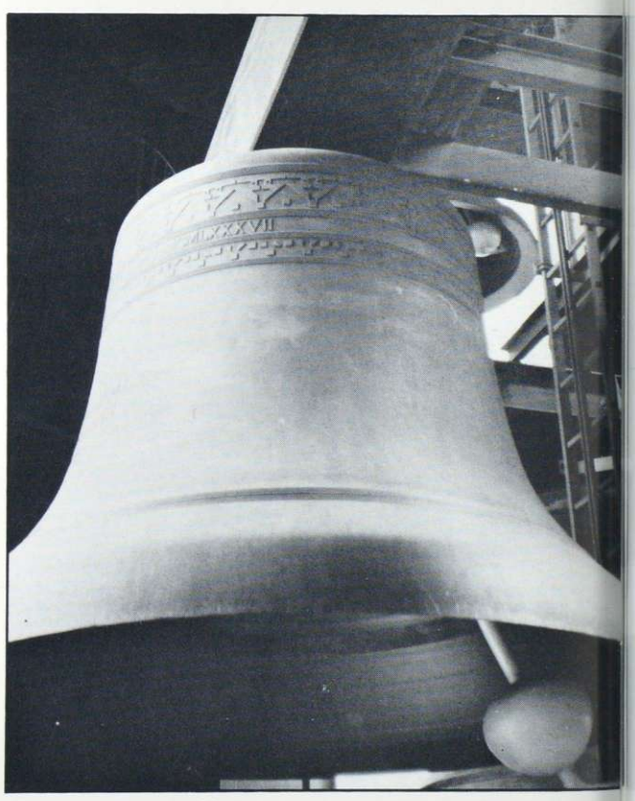
A poem representing the D-8 in this book:
(It's really not that good for all the time it took)
But read it anyway (or we'll bring the hand-shake joke back)
We're singers, not poets, so cut us some slack.
Let's start with track star, this is his fifth year, (at least last we knew;
~~does he still go here?)~~
Next is Ed Lovett, our super-coper boss,
Who ever stays mellow when he hits the sauce.
Yummy's the weirdest, but we like him anyway,
Though with "a joli jeau" and Texan accent, he's been known to pay.
Ratty's just Ratty, the most coping of singers;
(if he could just learn to steer clear of those toeringers . . .)
Blondie enjoys just free-wheeling along
And sharing his bodily odors oh-so-wrong.
About Ben "Hurt Me" Halpern, what can we say?
With his "Guy, I'm, teching," and our "Guy, don't pay."
Down to the juniors-let's start with Britt:
"Anyone can be fested if they just accept it."
Dashing Chris Butler, who sings "Only You"
Couldn't make up his mind, so he opted for two.
(Yes, we're degenerating here . . .)
The one known as Jones, who loves conversation,
Is generous with invaluable advice and information.
Then there's old Gabe, sporting the famed "bari joe",
(he barely clears tip with his minimal flow . . .)
The one known as Frog can learn most anything;
He can now ride a ped, but can he learn to sing?
The Bermuda-renowned Roni, dancer extraordinaire,
Wins the prize for the festiest underwear.
Jason's made the transition from bearded to shaved,
And no, he's not mute, he's just well-behaved.
Festy Fellinger, who's just set sail on a ship,
Is the only member who's brought his dad on a road trip.
Then there' s Blaine, with his bod lean and tall,
Maybe he'll learn his parts by next fall.
Finally there's Bob Villa, with his aversion to beers;
He doesn't drink yet, but he's got three more years . . .
Together we've been through fest-ventures galore:
Hurricane Festy, Demon Kitty, Booger Woman, and more.
Every year we take a little jaunt down to Bermuda,
Where we sing, dance, and ped, and we get huda-huda.
We lose six next year-does this mean the D-8 dies?
Ha! We laugh at you skeptics-we just need some new guys
So goodbye Ed, Trevor, Matt, Ben, Erik and Jon,
While you're out in reality, in your honor, we'll fest on.



CARILLONEURS

The Middlebury Carilloneurs opened the year with a concert by guest George Matthew on September 19, who also played for President McCardell's inauguration on the following day. Fall Recruits Scott DeVries '96 and Jennifer Wells '96 made their debuts at the Service of Lessons and Carols in December, and then joined President Amy Heebner '93 and Elise Bergelson '94 in the evening songs.

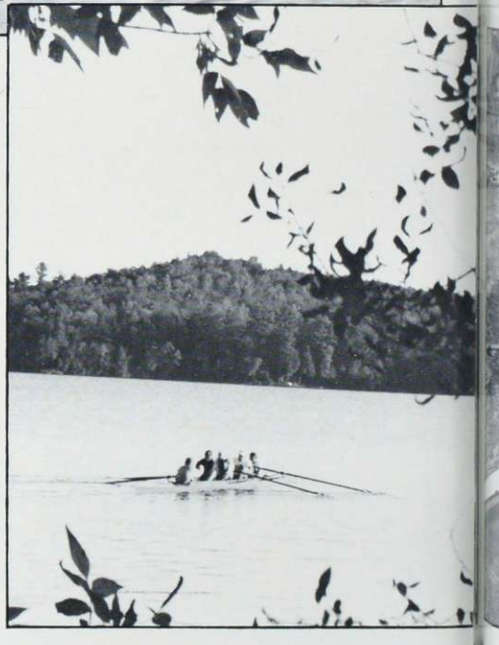
Rain or shine, the bells of Middlebury will keep ringing!



The water polo club is a co-ed organization with both fall and spring seasons of competition. This fall, the team hosted two home tournaments and traveled to Bates College twice for inter-collegiate competition, but the spring was a much more relaxed season. The team hosted one home tournament and journeyed to the annual Williams spring tournament to face some tough competition. The club looks forward to next season, though many strong senior contributors will be missed.

MIDDLEBURY WATER POLO CLUB

MiddCrew

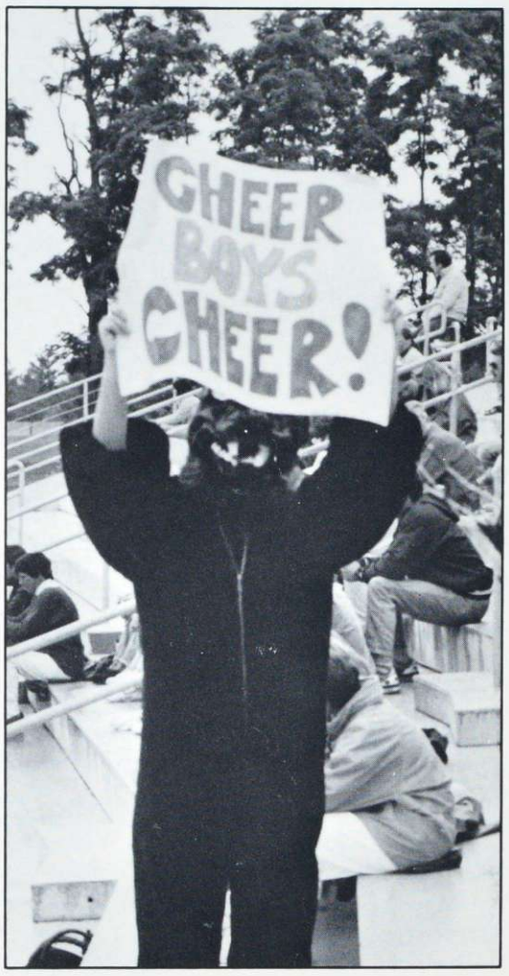


The Middlebury owing Club just keeps etting better and bet- er. Each season more rews watch in disbelief s MiddCrew flies right ast them, cowspotted ars shimmering. Fall 992 saw the best sea- on yet for these dili- ent rowers. A men's our and a women's four participated in the world-renowned lead of the Charles Regatta in Boston. (The rowers greatly ppreciated MiddCrew's fans cheering them on at 8:30 in ne morning.)

Both varsity and novice programs were strong in the fall. Men's and women's novice A boats each had winning sea- ons and brought home two very attractive fish head tro- hies at the end of the season. (Head of the Fish, Saratoga, NY). The men's novice program consisted of three full eights and the women's novice filled a whomping four full eights, a great sign for the future of MiddCrew. The varsity program was a bit smaller, but no less successful. With three Men's varsity fours, a Women's varsity four and varsity eight, MiddCrew took the fall racing circuit by storm. The crews travelled to Boston, Philadelphia, Albany, Middletown, CT, and Saratoga to row against crews from Yale, Wesleyan, and Williams, to name a few. In the spring, MiddCrew travelled to Sumerton, SC for spring training and then raced in New York and New England against prominent schools such as Bates, Bowdoin, Colby, and Williams. Despite a late and icy start to the Vermont season, spring racing brought several medals from regattas in Albany, Lowell, MA, Poughkeepsie, and the New England Rowing Championships in Worchester, MA.

The men's Varsity 4 (David Owens '93, Peter Rubin '95, David Mitchell '95, and Coxswain Caren Priest '95) also travelled to Philadelphia to row in the prestigious Dad Vails Regatta. With nowhere to go but up, MiddCrew has become a team to beat in New England!

Pep Band



The Middlebury College Pep Band (a.k.a. The Fightin' Cowpies) continued to tame the wild crowds of adoring fans with the help of its new recruits, who doubled the size of the band. This year, the Cowpies were pleased to introduce its most unusual looking member of the squad, the Middlebury Panther. With a little humor and an improved version of "Cheer Boys Cheer," the Cowpies were able to keep the fans happily entertained and to help lead the football team to victory. Co-leaders Jackie Schneider '93 and Drew McQuide '95 experimented with new music, but kept up the traditional tailgates. Overall, the Middlebury College Fightin' Cowpies were able to gain a decent amount of respect and still have a good time.

The Middlebury Women's Rugby Football Club's magnificent 1993 season, although plagued with confusion concerning the coaching staff and frustration with the lack of home matches, was a great success; Under the provident guidance of coaches Boze Casten and Tim Curry, the team improved tremendously over the course of the spring. Overcoming the often crippling consequences of making so many road-trips, the A side finished the year with a winning record, and the B and C sides played some excellent matches, showing great promise for future seasons. The sole home match drew a large and distinguished crowd, as Plymouth State fell victim to the hearty play of the Middlebury ruggers. The most emotional and physical match took place in Burlington, before a verbose crowd of angry UVM fans, who were disappointed with the loss handed to their Cats by the unstoppable Panther scrum.

Senior forwards Michelle D'Ambrose, Alexa Evans, Laetetia Morbelli, and Kit VanWagner and backs Holly Cookis, Pam Daigle, Olga Jackson, Tracy Purinton, Heather Rider, and Kirsten Shonstrom made the most of their last spring at Middlebury, serving as role-models for the younger players both on and off the field. Led by back captain Nancy Logan and scrum captain Liz Mormino, the team had some times that will not soon be forgotten. Special thanks to club president Kerri Heinecken and match secretary Holly Hodson for a thankless job well done. To next year's team, good luck next spring, and here's a toast . . . to a scrum that knows, a back that goes, and a lad that loves a rugger!

	RECORD (7-1)

The 1992 Panther football team had one of its most successful seasons ever, clinching the NESCAC title in victories over Hamilton and Tufts. The win against Hamilton was the first Panther victory against Hamilton on the road since 1982. The victory against Tufts made the Panthers the premier football team in NESCAC. The win was a fitting end to a season that saw the Panthers go from a 2-6 record in 1991 to the best in the league in 1992. The final mark was 7-1, making it the best the Panthers have had since 1981. It also marks the biggest comeback in Panther history since 1936. The 1935 team went 1-6-1 before it rebounded to 8-0 in 1936. Middlebury head coach Mickey Heinecken was overjoyed at his team's success- "This is a tremendous achievement for our program, and a credit to the caliber of these students. They have won tough victories all season . . . by a real spiritual tenacity and a strong team commitment. They deserve to be NESCAC champions."

In addition to its outstanding performance in the fall, Middlebury produced a series of individual award winners. Tim Shaw '93 was named ECAC Defensive Player of the Week, and was selected from both offensive and defensive player as the Gold Helmet winner for Division II and III schools for his outstanding game against Williams. Dave Middleton '93 was a NESCAC Defensive Player of the week and was named to the ECAC Honor Roll for his play against Bowdoin. Will White '94 earned identical honors for his performance in the game against Tufts. Grady Woodring '93 was named the ECAC Defensive Player of the Week following the game against Colby, Matt Whitcomb '94 was named to the Honor Roll for the same game. Michael Brass '95 was selected by the NESCAC as Offensive Player of the Week for his game against Williams. This is the largest group of individual honors that Middlebury has received since the early eighties.

Let us again congratulate the Panthers on an outstanding season, they have earned the right to be called champions. What an exciting season 1993 should prove to be!

The 1992 women's soccer team began the season with a solid 5-2 win over St. Michael's. The team then roadtripped to Maine to play Colby and Bates. Unfortunately, the Colby field, which closely resembles the surface of the moon, caught the Panther's off guard. The loss of senior goaltender, Sarah Cahill, to a slightly amnesic concussion, coupled with the horendous conditions, led to a 1-3 loss to the Mules. The Panthers went on to win the next day's game 1-0 with tri-captain, Becky Worley making saves and hula dancing in the net. The next game against Bowdoin, whom the Panthers had defeated in pre-season, proved to be a battle royale, with the Panthers coming up short and losing 1-2. The Purple Cows were next on the schedule and they proved to be the best team Middlebury had played in the past four years. After a 0-4 whomping in Williamstown, long-winded junior orator Sarah Quigley assured ESPN reporters that Williams was "good". The next week and a half proved disappointing with a 0-2-1 record. However, Middlebury vented their frustration against the hapless Cadets of Norwich. Led by scoring machine and film star, Katie Porn-ler the Panthers pummeled Norwich, 7-0. The momentum was carried into the next game against Hamilton with a 2-0 victory. Unfortunately, the subsequent game proved incredibly frustrating due to Gail force winds and the fact that a communications error forced the Panther's to play on artificial turf in their cleats. The season ended with two more wins and one loss bringing the grand total to a 6-7-1 record. Leading the team in assists was senior tri-captain, Amy Lilly, who set up "point racker uppers" Katie Porn-ler, Jen B. Reeher and K.D. Falso. Sarah Quigley and Kelly Hefner proved invaluable to the defensive efforts that were led by senior Tri-captain and All American STUD, Wendy "Woody" Jensen. Coach Bill "The Beandogger" Beaney looks forward to a more successful season in 1993 under the leadership of Falso, Quigley and Reeher. The team would like to thank assistant coach, Tommy Humphme and player-coach, Kirsten Morebutts.

The Middlebury College men's soccer team's 1992 season was ended by the 1-0 loss to Connecticut College in the semi-final action of the ECAC Division III New England Championships on November 6th. The Panthers beat Eastern Connecticut 2-0 in the quarterfinals on November 4th.

The Panthers had entered the quarterfinal competition seeded second with a record of 10-4 for the season. Seventh ranked Eastern Connecticut was 13-5 for the season. The two teams appeared evenly matched throughout most of the first period, then the Panthers overturned the game entering the second half. Jeff David '94 scored at 66:20 to lead East Conn 1-0, and Tony Claudino '93 followed at 76:55 to bring the final score to 2-0.

The loss to Connecticut College made Middlebury College's final record to 11-5 for the season.

Mike Walker '93 and John Atherton '9 were chosen for the New England Intercolle giate Soccer League Senior All-Star tean Walker was a forward, the Middlebury recor holder for most goals scored in a season wit 15 goals. He is the college's second all-tim scorer with 29 goals in four years. Walker wa one of only six forwards in New Englan named to the All-Star Team. Atherton was back, a cornerstone for the Middlebury de fense this season. A four year letterwinner fo the Panthers, Atherton served as team captai his senior year. This is the third year th Atherton has been selected to the All-St squad, which this is the first season the sele tion has been limited to seniors.

Congratulations to the Men's Soccer tea for a great 1992 season, and good luck for th coming 1993 season!

After the phenomenal success of last year's running season, this year's squad began the year with high hopes and expectations. However, the loss of many members of last year's team was felt quite deeply, and this year's team did not repeat last year's results, which were the most successful in the school's history. However, this year's team showed a lot of talent and individual improvement throughout the season. Men's captain Chad Bryant managed to beat the "captain's disease" and had his best season ever, while the tight group of Gil Prado, Jake Kritzer, Matt Somers, Zach Laidley, and Cisco Hellers saw some close and exciting finishes at the head of the pack in many races. Sophomore Jake Kritzer was the recipient of this year's Most Improved award.

After their competitive showings at the early season dual meets, the women's team saw some strong individual finishes at this year's championship races. Juniors Amy Hillingsworth and Kristin Daly were both named to the All ECAC team, and Daly also earned a spot on the All NESCAC and All New England squads. Kristin's season culminated in qualifying for NCAA's for the third time, and earning All American honors for the second year in a row. Senior Schaunel Steinnagel was the women's recepient of the Most Improved award, and Kristin Daly recieved the DenHartog Award, an MVP award given in honor of former Middlebury runner and skier Dorcas DenHartog who is now skiing for the US ski team.

All in all, it was a competitive and fulfilling season for both teams. This year's seniors will certainly be missed, but they will leave a group of talented athletes behind and the coming season has the potential to be a strong one.

The Middlebury Field Hockey team's 1992 seasc ended in the ECAC quarterfinal match on Noven ber 4th when William's Ephwomen scored the thi goal with 2:41 remaining in overtime to win ov the Panthers 3-2. The Panthers performed well Panther's goalie Loralee Rackleff, of Oaklan Maine had five saves, while Williams keeper Herman was forced to make 10. Of 15 games playe Middlebury closed the season with an 8-7 record

Although the ending of the season was rath disappointing, the Panthers were still given reason to celebrate. Eileen Marvin '93 from Thinbec N.Y., and Sarah Ellwood '93 from Rumson, N. were both named Regional All-Americans for the performances this year. Ellwood was selected to t second team, while Marvin was selected to the fir team. Marvin was also named to one of nine seni players from the Division III Northeast region s lected to represent the North Team at the Thi Annual Division III North-South Senior All-St Field Hockey game.

Within the team, the Panthers named Sarah E wood '93 as MVP this season, while Sarah Mart '95 of Wellesley, Mass., was given the Unsung He Award. Also, senior Kerri Heinecken of Middl bury, Vt., was given the Alumni Award for h contributions to the team over the past four yea And finally, Amy Copley of New Vernon, N.J., a Nancy Hastings of Hopkinton, N.H., were nam co-captains for the 1993 season.

Co-Captains Ray Alcindor and Tim Craig

The 1993 Men's Middlebury Ice Hockey Team had a season which surpassed all early expectations. After the loss of four All-Americans from last year's squad, the '93 team relied on a core of experienced seniors and a group of young freshmen. Leading the team to the regular season championship and a record of 18-4-2 were Ray Alcindor, the Div. II College Player of the year and First Team All-American, Neil Sinclair, another First Team All-American, and Tim Craig, an All-ECAC and All-New England selection. Alcindor led the team with 48 points on 18 goals and 30 assists, followed by Craig with 45 points on 20 goals and 25 assists, and Todd Lambert, who had his best year with 37 points on 14 goals and 23 assists. However, total team support and contribution came from a host of players. The sophomores, and especially Jim Schaaf in goal (17-3-2), came in to fill important openings on the team, while a group of seven freshmen stepped in and developed into essential members of the team.

The low point of the season, a first round loss to Bowdoin in the playoffs, could not mar and outstanding season. For the first time in the college's history, the '93 team was undefeated at home during the regular season, while also setting a new record of 16 games straight without a loss. The team won the Middlebury Classic for the second time in three years and for the third time in three years, John Atherton and Stuart Campbell made the ECAC All-Party Team, and joining them was rookie party sensation Richard "the Limburger" Lim.

All members of the senior class should be honored for their four year contributions to Middlebury Hockey. They are leaving with an incredible winning percentage, one that will likely not be touched in the near future, and a remarkable career record of 82-16-5. But at the same time, an excellent nucleus of returning players would assure the continued success and winning tradition of the Middlebury Hockey team. The 1993-1994 season will be lead by Jamie Wood '94, good luck Panthers!

The Women's Varsity Ice Hockey team had a fun and fabulous season. The competition was divided between the easier Division III games and the more difficult and rougher games with the Division I schools. We had a number of close scores in the Middlebury tournament against our Maine rivals, Bowdoin and Colby and McGill from Canada. The team won the majority of its games and were able to tough it aout against great opponents like Dartmouth, St. Lawrence, and Brown. We built a lot of character in such games, and were able to hold our heads high despite the great differences in goals scored. The highlight of this season was clearly the exciting defeat of Colby in overtime. This was a difficult and building season for the Lady Panthers considering we had less than three offensive lines and only three defensive players. To say the least, we were all in good shape and got a lot of playing time! However, the future looks bright with returning players and the growing program. Kimmy and Katie would like to thank everyone for another great season in Women's Ice Hockey, and we are sure it is merely a stepping stone for an even better one! Good luck next year!

Co Captains Pat Casey and Seth Heaton

The 1992-1993 men's varsity basketball team turned in yet another winning season by compiling a 12-11 record. The Panthers, led by co-captains Seth Heaton and Pat Casey, struggled for the first half of the season before putting together an eight game winning streak. This streak included a victory over then number 1 in New England Colby College along with blowouts of Bates, Skidmore and Amherst.

Seth Heaton led the team in scoring averaging 19 points per game and 6 rebounds per game while sophomore Jason Prenovost helped contribute 15.3 points per game. This season marked the conclusion of the three graduating seniors' illustrious careers. Seth Heaton finished up his career by becoming the all-time leading three-point shooter in Middlebury history. He set records for most three pointers in a career (205 over three years), most three pointers in a game (7), and highest three point field goal percentage (48% for three years). Heaton was also named to the New England Small College Athletic Conferences all star team for his play this past season. Pat Casey became Middlebury College's all time assist leader while also setting the record for most assists in a game (16). David Salisbury, returning from a year long hiatus in Europe, established a new blocked shots record this season (55).

The effort put forth by these three individuals over the past four years has helped establish the Middlebury basketball program as one of New England's elite.

Women's Squash

The "We play hard Ball", "MIDD" women's squash team was close to "unsquashable" this season. They finished a most successful season with a record of 13-5, including a historical win over Dartmouth College, 5-4. On that note, they travelled to Yale for the annual team national's Howe cup, where they placed second in the B-division, and finished tenth in the country. Three senior players, Sarah Ellwood, Kelly Rivers, and Sarah Swanz, weathered yet another blizzard in travelling to Trinity College for the women's singles' nationals. Each demonstrated their squash talents, developed over their four years, in facing a tough draw of highly ranked players. Middlebury's number one, Kelly Rivers, finished her college career ranked in the top 20 nationally, achieving second All-American honors.

The team would like to thank coach Dave Saward for his patience with the weather and their psychological crises.

They wish next year's team the best of luck in continuing their record of success and enjoy the new challenges of soft ball.

The Middlebury Nordic team established itself, once again, as one of the top three teams on the eastern carnival circuit this past year. Led by the efforts of an outstanding women's team the Panthers finished out of the top three only once in combined scores.

The first race of the carnival season was hosted by UNH in Jackson, NH. In the mass start 15K freestyle race the Middlebury women established themselves as an eastern force by placing three skiers in the top ten, led by Amy Hollingsworth in second place. Middlebury's eventual MVP recipient, Riikka Pakkala, ran into some early season trouble, losing one ski several times before being forced to abandon the effort. The day was not a total loss for Rikkaa though, as she had the opportunity to try out some of the English that she had picked up since arriving at school from her native Finland. In the 20K mass start later that morning the Middlebury men discovered that they lacked the depth of the women's team, but, led by Zachary Caldwell's 11th place, managed to score enough points to keep the team in the running.

The next weekend at Bates carmova; in scenic Rumford, Maine, the Middlebury women again showed that they were capable by winning the individual skate race. The victory was tribute to team depth as there were five Middlebury women in the top twelve, led by Kristin Daly and Kelly McCann, in second and third respectively. In the relays the following day both Middlebury teams showed their ability to perform under pressure. To start the morning off Brian Welch brought the Panthers from sixth to third place in the last kilometer of the anchor leg. In response to this performance, the women placed two relay teams in second and third positions, beating all but UVM's first team.

As the season progressed both teams showed their depth with a series of outstanding performances. Leading the scoring for the season was Riikka who went on to place third in the classic race at UVM, fourth at Dartmouth, sixth skating at Williams, and fourth and fifth in two individual races at the EISA championships held at Middlebury. Kelly finished fourth at Williams before leaving town to compete in the World Junior Championship in former Czechoslovakia. Kristin went on to finish fifth at Williams and eighth at Middlebury. Sara Rabinowitz came on to finish fifth at UVM, eighth at Dartmouth, ninth at Williams, and eighth at Middlebury. Brian Welch came on strong at the end of his senior season to finish seventh at Williams, and seventh again at Middlebury. Great results were also turned in by Becky Irwin and Sean Kerwin in the eastern Junior Olympic qualifying races, and the two represented Middlebury at the Junior National Championships held at Giants Ridge, Minnesota.

Middlebury sent five women (Amy, Kelly, Kristin, Rikka, and Sara) and two men (Brian and Zach) to the nordic races at the NCAA Championships in Steamboat, Colorado. Amy Hollingsworth led the Panthers with two 19th place finishes as the team struggled at altitude. While graduating seniors Brian Welch, Brian Rickauer, and Kirsten Shonstrom will be sorely missed, most of the team will return next year to take on the Western schools at sea level in Sugarloaf, Maine.

(WOMEN)

The winter of 1993 proved to be one of the most exciting frustrating seasons in recent years. Beginning at the University of New Hampshire winter carnival, Panther skiers Nate Bryan and Kirsten Rodgers led the Middlebury attack against the best in the East, claiming an unprecedented double victory by winning both the men's and women's Giant Slalom. These strong results set the pace for a successful season as the men's and women's squads used their depth to score consistently within the t three came within five points of upsetting t reigning NCAA National Champions, UVM. U fortunately, luck for the Panther women's team r out just as the best snow year in decades bless New England. Torn Knee ligaments put top NCA skiers Kate Webber, Perky Mackey and Mia De attei out for the season, leaving the Panthers w just four women available to compete in the Easte Championships at Middlebury. Although Han capped by the injuries on the women's squad, K sten Rodgers, Peter Webber, Dave Bryan, M Waddell, and Nate Bryan helped Middlebury ski an eighth place combined finish at the NCA Championships in Steamboat Springs Colora Both Nate Bryan and Kirsten Rodgers earned A American honors for their strong finishes in t Giant Slslom. Seinor Peter Webber, a four ti NCAA Championship skier, will leave big shoes fill upon his graduation this spring. The returni team members are looking forward to materializi on their potential to be smong the top contend for Eastern and National success in 1994.

Middlebury Baseball came off one of it's best seasons in the school's history in 1992 with a solid 9-9 mark this year. A supposed rebuilding year turned out to be very exciting with wins against Hamilton, Colby and rival Williams, as well as a narrow defeat to Division 1 UVM. The Panther Nine look to be very strong in the future with 19 returning players. However, the squad will miss the leadership and play of four-year starter, Andy Hyland, the lone senior on the 1993 team. We also extend a special tribute to Dick Waterman, who is retiring as Head Athletic Trainer at the college, for his consistent work and support for the Middlebury teams during his long career.

The track team had an excellent season this year, despite a looong, cooold, winter. Led by seniors Greg Fisher, Chris Bevin, and senior captains Susie Caldwell, John Linder, and Gilberto Prado, the Panthers trounced through the snow (sometimes naked), and came together as a team. A plethora of individuals were rewarded for their outstanding efforts. The team started their season by migrating to sunny Los Angeles, CA, training on Venice Beach, making good time on the track and breaking records on the highway. The men took off with a bang, finishing 2nd of 11 teams at the Williams Relays and had an impressive season record ending with a 5th place finish at NESCACs, and 12th at New Englands led by All-NESCAC stars: Foster Goodrich (disk and hammer), Jeff Lindley (long jump), Chris Bevin (high jump), Adam Heirsch (800m), and Gil Prado (5000m, Midd record holder in (1500 & 10000m), Greg Fisher (Midd record holder shotput), Kyle Hirsch (discus), and Nikola Tarashev (100 & 200 m), and John Linder (pole vault), who were both all-NESCAC and All-New England scorers. Near the end of the season, the men's time fell victim to injuries that prevented the team from realizing their potential. But, all things considered, the men had an excellent season and are primed for next year's effort. The women's team had a great year thanks to the huge influx of First Year students, beginning with a 6th (of 12) place finish at the Williams Relays, and ending with some excellent individual achievements at NESCACs and New Englands. Superstars Lee Eng Tang (Midd record hammer) Susie Caldwell (1500, 800, 4x800m), Jen Hutchins (javelin), Hillery Hinds (400m), and the record holding 4x800 team of Bethany Johnson, Ruth Kelty, Brooke Magnaghi, and Susie Caldwell all achieved All-NESCAC All-New England honors. Middlebury is sending a whole host of athletes to the Div. III National Championships, including NESCAC Champion Greg Fisher, and the Untouchable 4x100 relay squad of Anthony Atkinson, Branigan Sherman, and two budding Fresh people Terence Bradford and Nikola Tarashev.

Susie Caldwell - "We make great pets."
Greg Fisher — "It's not a barrier, it's a threshold!!"
Gilberto Prado - "Hey guys, let's get psyched for the next meet!!"
John Linder - "We came, we partied, we ran (naked)."
Chris Bevin - "Cha, as if."
We're all going to miss this team. Thanks Mom Patty, Luke, Martin, we love you guys.

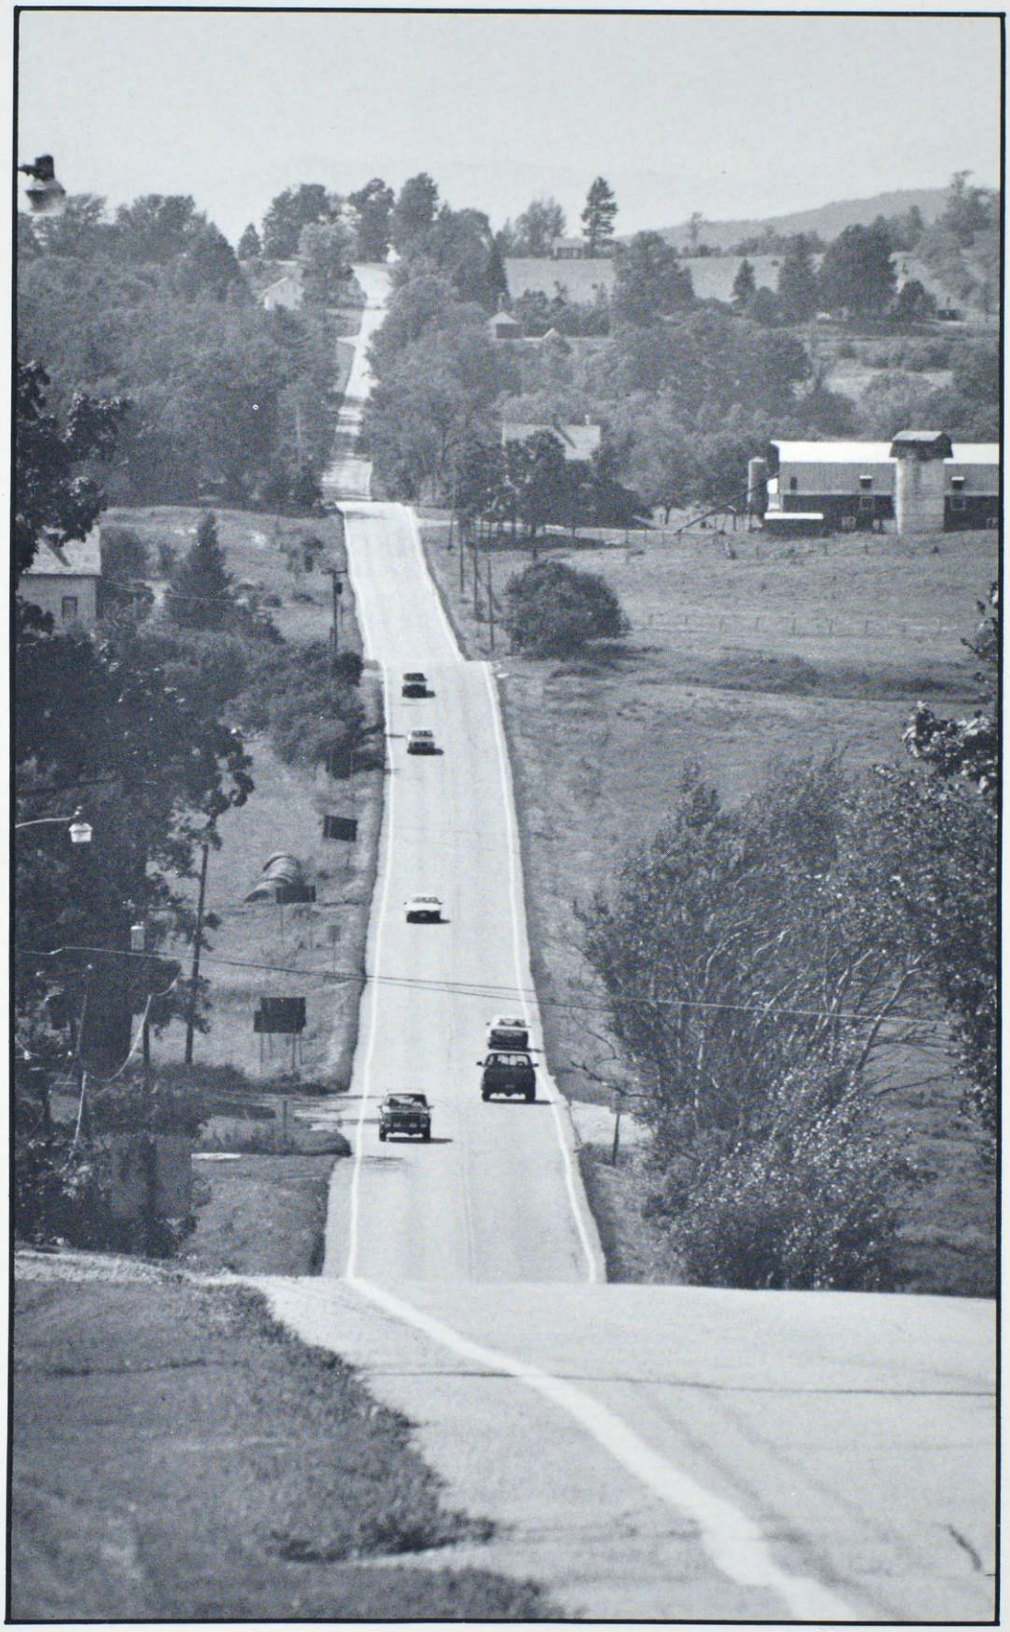
Dedication

On behalf of the Class of 1993 and the Staff of the Kaleidoscope, I would like to recognize and thank Frank Kelley for his time, understanding and humor. You have fought for issues on behalf of the students, you have overextended yourself in order to make us comfortable and you have sacrificed a large portion of your time so that we may enjoy ours. Please just know that we appreciate all that you have done for us. Future Middlebury students will miss you, Mr. Kelley, even though they may never have had the chance to meet you. Those of us who were here while you were will know that YOU are what is missing from their Middlebury experience.

Jen Saunders

* Mr. Kelley, I know this is not a life-size centerfold, but I hope it'll do!



Goodbye Class of 1993.
Good luck on whichever road you choose to travel.
